WAREHOUSING IN A MAJOR MENTAL HEALTH SYSTEM

6:41 pm By admin

ABSTRACT

Over the past decade, proposals to transform our nation's mental health system have called for an end to the "warehousing" of system clients and the provision of services that promote recovery. In King County, Washington, efforts would also appear to be underway to establish a recovery-based system. But outcome reports from the King County mental health system suggest that it has moved increasingly in the direction of warehousing its clients. Warehousing, not recovery, would appear to be King County's operational goal and what it believes it can achieve.

This paper explores the reality of warehousing amidst

The Citizens Commission on Human Rights (CCHR) is a non-profit, public benefit organization dedicated to investigating and exposing psychiatric violations of human rights.

Thousands of individuals contact CCHR each year to report psychiatric abuse and criminality, false imprisonment, fraud, sexual abuse and inhumane treatment and conditions in psychiatric institutions. CCHR documents the abuse and helps the individual report the matters to the proper authorities.
